9 UI BENEFIT REPORTS AND FORMS SENT TO

EMPLOYERS

Your help is needed to maintain the integrity of the unemployment insurance system. One way we solicit your assistance is by sending you reports that either ask for verification of information provided by the claimant, ask for additional information, or provide information to you about the status of the claim.

As mentioned in Part 5, there are four required UI benefit reports. In addition to the four required reports, there are a number of other forms that you may receive.

When you receive one of our reports, please review it promptly. Complete and return all those that you are required to return or that ask for information. The reverse side of most forms will include an explanation of the report, instructions for completion, and/or telephone numbers to call for more information. If you find an error on any of the informational reports, notify us as soon as you can so that we can investigate the discrepancy and correct the record.

Remember that your account will be charged for all erroneously paid benefits as the result of a missing, late or incorrect/incomplete required report, including erroneously paid benefits that were charged to other employers' accounts.

- Be sure to report all types of wages/pay for the week in the spaces provided, even for those that the claimant reported correctly. If one of the

H. FORM UCB-701 COMPUTATION OF UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE BENEFITS

Form UCB-701 lists employees who have established claims based on work with you.

The information entered on the front of the form is obtained from the wage data you submitted quarterly. If you did not file a quarterly report, either your Form UCB-719, Urgent Request for Wages, or the claimant's affidavit of earnings was used to determine the claimant's potential entitlement.

1 UI Account Number

 This is the UI account that is potentially liable for unemployment payments based on the claims established during the report period.

(2) Report Period

 This is the time period that the report covers. All claims established during this period, for which the UI account listed on the report is potentially liable, are included on the report.

(3) Employee/SS Number

 The names and social security numbers for each claim established during the report period are printed in this column.

4 Liability Information

- Total Maximum This is the maximum amount of regular benefits potentially payable to the employee, and it is the maximum amount that may be charged to your account. In some situations, such as a voluntary quit or a discharge for misconduct, these benefits may be charged to the balancing account or to the administrative account and not to your UI reserve account. You will receive a written determination if these situations apply.
- Weekly Maximum The amount shown is the weekly maximum that could be charged to your account. If the employee had other employers in the base period, the amount shown is your proportional share of each week paid. The proportion potentially chargeable to you is based on the percentage of base period wages paid by you in relation to base period wages paid by all other employers.
- Liable Until The date the employee's benefit year ends is shown here.
   Benefits based on this computation cannot be carried over to a later benefit year.

5 Quarterly Gross Wages

 The liability information in the prior column is based on wages paid by you in the base period quarters of the claim. The gross wages paid by this UI account in each quarter of the employee's base period are shown.

6 Eligibility Pending

 If there are eligibility issues yet to be resolved against your account, there will be an asterisk in this column. Actual payment of benefits will not be made until the investigations for such eligibility issues have been completed and you have been mailed written determinations (Form UCB-20) resolving the issues.

COMPUTATION OF UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE BENEFITS UCB-701

Each employe listed has established a benefit year. Potential benefits payable during the benefit year, based on work for you, are shown opposite the employe's name. The reverse of this form provides information about the benefit computation.

The issuance of this form does not mean benefits are immediately payable. If an eligibility issue is still pending, an investigation will be conducted to determine if benefits are payable. You will receive a copy of the determination that results from that investigation.

You will receive notice of each benefit check issued and charged to your account. If you have any questions, call one of the telephone numbers listed on the reverse side.

J. FORM UCB-7074, UI BENEFIT CHARGES AND ADJUSTMENTS REPORT

This report is mailed 4 times each month to notify employers of benefit charges and adjustments made to their UI account. The report is informational only. It is not a bill and does not have to be returned.

If you want to question the eligibility of a claimant for a payment received or for future payments, contact one of the Benefit Centers listed on the back of this handbook.

(1) UI Account No.

 This is the UI account that was charged and/or credited for payments listed on the report.

(2) Report Period

 This is the time period that the report covers. All charges and credits posted during this time period will appear on the report. A benefit check was not necessarily paid for this period. The actual calendar week(s) for which payments have been made are listed in Section A.

3 Section A lists all initial benefit charges.

- The report may include payments made to more than one claimant. Individual claimants are listed separately.
- Payments for more than one week for a given claimant may have been made during the report period. Each week is listed separately.
- A claimant's UI payment for a given week may have a variety of deductions for distribution to other locations (i.e. federal withholding, child support, and benefits withheld to repay a prior overpayment of benefits, etc.). Each distribution is listed separately on the report but the total of the distributions for a given week should never exceed your weekly liability for the claim.
- "Wages Reported" are the total wages earned from all employers in the UI week listed. The claimant may or may not have earned any wages from you in the week(s) listed.
- An alpha code may appear in the far right column of Section A. This code references an explanation of the charge on the back side of the report.
- Section B lists any adjusting entry made to the account, including both credits and charges. Any action taken on a benefit claim that changes the employer's liability for a particular payment will result in an adjustment to an employer's UI account and will be listed in this section. Some examples include:

- Amendments to a claim that affect the proration of liability charges to employers in the claim (even changes that are unrelated to the claimant's work and wages from a given employer can affect that employer's prorated share of the liability charges).
- A determination that benefits have been overpaid.
- A determination that benefits have been paid erroneously because an employer failed to raise a timely eligibility question or provided incorrect or incomplete information on a required report.
- A numerical code may appear in the far right column of Section B. This code references a reason for the adjustment on the back side of the report.

Note: Section B can also include quarterly charges from other states. These charges represent the employer's share of liability for claims filed in other states which combined wages from more than one state to establish the claimant's benefit eligibility.

5 Section C shows the net credit or charge to the UI account during the specified time period.

Claimants Who Are Still Working For You If a claimant works for you in any week for which (s)he is paid unemployment benefits, you will initially be charged for your share of payment in Section A. However, if the employee earned gross wages during that week which are equal to or greater than the average weekly wage paid to the claimant in the same calendar quarter of the previous year, your account will automatically receive a credit for this charge in Section B. The credit may or may not appear on the same report as the charge. (See Part 4 for more information about this credit.)

Claimants Who Have Quit

Payments made to a claimant who quit working for you will not appear on this report if you are a contributing (taxable) employer and have been notified that your account will be not charged for benefits based on work performed prior to the quit. However, if you are a reimbursable employer, you are liable for such payments and they will appear on this report. (See Part 7 for more information about your liability for a claimant who quit working for you.)
